BRITAIN PREPARES FOR 'EMERGENCY'

Billion and Quarter Being Spent for Armaments With English Hoping Action May Deter Others

By WEBB MILLER

LONDON, April 1. — (UP) — Great Britain's staggering re-armament program, to cost $1,350,000,000 constitutes one of the most important political and military events since the World War in the sense of its potential effect on the future trend of European affairs.

1. She hopes her show of might will deter attack and thus actually promote peace instead of war.

2. If she has to go to war, she will be prepared to win.

Alfred Duff-Cooper, war minister, expressed it as follows:

"It is not beautiful nor desirable; indeed it is hateful and damnable to think that we have to shoot our fellow-men, but as it has to be done, it had better be done well."

By the unprecedented expansion of her military machine, Britain intends to regain her old-time dominant position as arbiter of the European balance of power which has waned in recent years.

Up to Taxpayers
The taxpayer of Great Britain, already the most heavily-burdened in the world, will have to foot the bill but seems to be resigned to the necessity.

In recent years Britain's military expenditures averaged only about 14 percent of the national income but henceforth they are likely to be nearer 25 percent.

The taxpayer probably will have to give up one-fourth of his income instead of 22 1/2 percent as at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunsicker will remove to Florida where the former will manage a new paper plant in Fernandina. They plan to leave for their new home Saturday.

Mr. Ekins has been serving as plant engineer for the last several years.

Promotions were announced for E. Vanatta, Watt street, from tour foreman to plant superintendent; for William Montgomery, Half avenue, from millwright to superintendent of maintenance; Albert Reid, E. Ohio street, from rotary foreman to tour foreman; and Roy Hampp, E. Mound street, from rotary foreman to tour foreman.

SURINA, YOUNG GUNMAN, FACES SHOOTING COUNT

Steve Surina, 20-year-old Pennsylvania hoodlum, will be returned to Circleville next week to face charges of shooting with intent to wound George Ruder, Columbus detective.

Surina, Sheriff Charles Radcliff charges, shot Ruder below the heart, wounding him severely, during a chase July 14, 1935, when the young gunman and three friends were trying to evade arrest. The shooting took place near the Walnut township school. Ruder recovered, and will probably be used as a witness against Surina if he comes to trial.

Sheriff Radcliff and Prosecutor George Gerhardt left early Thursday for Huntingdon, Pa., home of the Pennsylvania state reformatory, from which Surina will be freed Saturday. He has been serving time for automobile theft. At the time of his arrest with Nick Rishko, Steve Schultz and Frank Stavinsky, he told authorities he and Rishko shot a night watchman in an Allentown, Pa., junkyard in November, 1934. Permitted to return to Pennsylvania to face that charge, Surina was able to obtain an acquittal, but he pleaded guilty to the automobile theft charge.

Sheriff Radcliff and Prosecutor Gerhardt, before they left, obtained all necessary papers to gain custody of the youth. Reformatory officials reported he had signed a waiver, expressing willingness to return to Circleville.

All the other youths were returned to Pennsylvania to face various charges. They were chased into Pickaway county after an automobile collision in Columbus. Posses from eight central Ohio counties assisted in their capture after several gun fights. Ruder was the only person wounded, however, except two of the youths.

TWO ORDERED TO COURT

Two persons were arrested by city police early Thursday for driving autos with 1936 tags. They were Ellis Arnold, 29, of New Holland, and Stanley Melvin, 19, of Circleville. Both were ordered to report in police court Thursday night.

County Representative Casts "No" Ballot as House Favors Resolution

OTHERS CHANGE DECISIONS

Legislators Approve Measure Supporting President

Clark K. Hunsicker, W. Union street, has joined the ranks of those opposed to President Roosevelt's proposed supreme court "reform". Mr. Hunsicker is the Pickaway county representative in the general assembly, which went on record Wednesday night as in favor of the tribunal's revision, but not so strongly as it was four weeks ago.

Mr. Hunsicker voted to approve a resolution declaring the reorganization program "right in accord with a sound public policy" when it came before the house a month ago, but at Wednesday's meeting he voted against it. He did not announce the reason for changing his vote.

Ballots Compared
The house's ballot, Wednesday, was 69 to 43, while four weeks ago the tally was 78 to 38.

Two other Democrats, who favored the resolution a month ago, opposed it Wednesday. They were A. Lee Fair, of Holmes county and Raymond Rutherford, of Brown county. Fair said he favored it in the earlier check "under protest," while Rutherford said he was "not so strong for it" as before.

Other Democrats voting "no" were Reps. Frank Grubbs, Fayette; George P. Gruenmeyer, Montgomery; Otto S. Lehman, Wayne; John Rea, Harrison; Herbert W. Smith, Washington; John E. Wittmeyer, Adams; Thomas A. Christy, Monroe; P. J. Dunn, Tuscarawas; E. R. Hummel, Fairfield and Kenneth M. Petri, Crawford.

NEW DISORDERS FORCE CLOSING OF CAR PLANTS

DETROIT, April 1. — (UP) — More than 90,000 automotive workers were idle today as a new wave of sit-down strikes spread through the plants of General Motors Corporation and its affiliates.

With 73,400 employees out of work as a result of prolonged strikes in the plants of Chrysler Corp., the Hudson and Reo Motor car companies, new labor troubles in four G. M. plants and the factory of the Yellow Truck & Coach Manufacturing company, added 17,200 to the ranks of idle workers.

A strike affecting 7,600 employees of the Fisher Body Corp. plant at Pontiac last night was followed today by the shutdown of the Pontiac motor assembly line of 1,100 workers due to a shortage of bodies.

Similarly, a sit-down at the No. 2 Chevrolet Motor company plant in Flint forced closure of Fisher's No. 2 plant where Chevrolet bodies were being put. Approximately 2,000 workers were affected by the Flint troubles.

Sidewalk Project To Start

W. P. A. will resume building sidewalks and curbing in the city in a week or ten days. Opening of the project will depend on weather conditions.

It has been definitely decided that sidewalks will be built only on streets where an established grade has been determined, which includes all paved streets. Sidewalks on other streets will be constructed only after the grade has been established and curbing built.

Last year's cost of nine cents a square foot for sidewalks and 40 cents a lineal foot for curbing will continue for this season.

To Begin on Court
Work will begin on N. Court street first. It will be extended to other streets as soon as possible. The project will furnish employment to about 20 men.

The weekly employment report for W. P. A., completed Wednesday, shows 322 persons on the payroll, including 278 men and 44 women on 14 projects. There has been little change in employment figures in recent months.

Workers will receive their pay Saturday morning. Those working on projects Saturday will be paid at the scene of the job. Others will be paid at the rear of the fire department at 9:30 a. m.

WORLD'S FINEST CIRCUS STARTS LONG ROAD TOUR

SARASOTA, Fla., April 1. — (UP) — The world's biggest show—Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus—closed its winter quarters today and took to the road.

Traveling aboard four special trains of 25 double-length steel cars each, the big show pulled stakes and headed for New York City, where it will inaugurate its 54th annual season in Madison Square Park 8.

The big show will arrive in New York Saturday and begin the task of assembling the tent and side shows in the garden arena. After the New York appearance, it will move on to Boston and then begin a 16,000-mile trek around the country, returning here again next November for the winter.

WHEELER CLAIMS F. D. R. IS LOSING IN SENATE POLL

WASHINGTON, April 1. — (UP) — Opponents of President Roosevelt's judiciary program claimed today that the administration is losing ground in its own tabulation of congressional support for enlargement of the supreme court. "There would not be 35 votes in the senate for the pending judiciary bill if it were brought to a vote today," Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., asserted in surveying this week's offensive against the measure.

"The administration is not even sure of 35 votes. They might get a majority if they cut the proposed increase of justices from six to two."

Another Democratic senator opposing the bill said privately that the administration leaders checked senate sentiment on the measure some weeks ago and reported they could count on 60 votes. Later, he asserted, they reduced their claim to 56 votes and the last poll resulted in a statement last week-end that there were at least 52 votes behind the measure.

LEWIS DAY OBSERVED

Committee of 16 Meets Thursday Afternoon

NEW YORK, April 1. — (UP) — A leading figure among coal operators negotiating the new Appalachian bituminous contract said today that an agreement seemed imminent and that it was hoped it could be concluded in time to permit 400,000 miners in a dozen states to resume work tomorrow.

This operator, who would not permit his name to be used, said that while producers on the negotiating committee of 16 put off action last night on a proposed compromise agreement, he believed they were set to approve it today.

Conference Called
A meeting of the committee of 16, composed of operators and United Mine Workers representatives, was called for 2 p. m.

The full wage conference of 30 members was called to meet at 4 p. m. and it was hoped a conclusive action to ratify the agreement could be taken then. The previous contract expired last midnight. Bituminous miners will not return to work until the new one is signed.

Mines were shut down today, but they have been anyway on April 1 is a holiday. "John L. Lewis Day."

Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, said that if a new contract was concluded late today or early the evening, he was prepared to telegraph all locals to resume work tomorrow.

More Time Desired

It was said that no vote was taken last night by operators on the negotiating committee but that they merely had desired more time to study the proposals formulated by a sub-committee. The last-minute controversy centered around the miners' demand for a 50-cent wage increase to $6 a day.

"The Brat", Junior Class Play, Thrills High School Audience Wednesday Eve

By HILDEBURN JONES, JR.

The curtain went up on another big smash hit, Wednesday evening. But it wasn't on Broadway—it was in Circleville. It was "The Brat", a three-act comedy written by Maude Fulton, and presented by Junior class of Circleville high school to a large and enthusiastic audience.

As have all his previous plays, "The Brat" brought much praise to its director, Roy Bowen, dramatics instructor. Eleven juniors held parts and all were splendid. The costumes and set were also deserving of much credit.

The story of "The Brat" centers around a young and very unsophisticated urchin, picked out of a police docket by MacMillan Forrester, a famous author, and dubbed by him "the brat". He uses her as a model for a new novel and intends to throw back into the gutter when he is finished. However, in the meantime, Steve, MacMillan's young brother and the blacksheep of the family, falls in love with her. "The brat", as well as Angela

Smythe and Jane Depew, two young women of the upper strata, fancy herself in love with MacMillan who heretofore considered himself irresistible, but impracticable to women of all makes and models.

All Actors Do Well

The little role of "the Brat" was handled excellently by Mary Meyer, who completely won the audience with her human pealing interpretation of "the brat". Bob Pickard, as Steve

SURINA, YOUNG GUNMAN, FACES SHOOTING COUNT

Steve Surina, 20-year-old Pennsylvania hoodlum, will be returned to Circleville next week to face charges of shooting with intent to wound George Ruder, Columbus detective.

Surina, Sheriff Charles Radcliff charges, shot Ruder below the heart, wounding him severely, during a chase July 14, 1935, when the young gunman and three friends were trying to evade arrest. The shooting took place near the Walnut township school. Ruder recovered, and will probably be used as a witness against Surina if he comes to trial.

Sheriff Radcliff and Prosecutor George Gerhardt left early Thursday for Huntingdon, Pa., home of the Pennsylvania state reformatory, from which Surina will be freed Saturday. He has been serving time for automobile theft. At the time of his arrest with Nick Rishko, Steve Schultz and Frank Stavinsky, he told authorities he and Rishko shot a night watchman in an Allentown, Pa., junkyard in November, 1934. Permitted to return to Pennsylvania to face that charge, Surina was able to obtain an acquittal, but he pleaded guilty to the automobile theft charge.

Sheriff Radcliff and Prosecutor Gerhardt, before they left, obtained all necessary papers to gain custody of the youth. Reformatory officials reported he had signed a waiver, expressing willingness to return to Circleville.

All the other youths were returned to Pennsylvania to face various charges. They were chased into Pickaway county after an automobile collision in Columbus. Poses from eight central Ohio counties assisted in their capture after several gun fights. Ruder was the only person wounded, however, except two of the youths.

Mr. Abernethy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie V. Abernethy; two daughters, Mrs. Walter E. Isaly, 2342 Arlington avenue, whose husband was his law partner, and Miss Elizabeth B. Abernethy, teacher of art at Indianola Junior high school; a brother, James M. Abernethy, liquidator for the Columbian Building & Loan Co., and three grandchildren.

The family home is at 1902 Tremont road. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

FUGITIVE, FREED BY DAVEY, FACES MORALS CHARGE

PITTSBURGH, April 1. — (UP)—Less than a month after he won a pardon from the Ohio governor for escaping from Ohio prison farm 20 years ago, Terrence Cannon, 38, modern "Jean Valjean," is back in jail today.

The steel-worker is being held on a morality charge involving his stepdaughter, 13-year-old Ida Grant. The story of the alleged relations between Cannon and his stepdaughter was revealed at a juvenile court hearing at which Ida was held on a delinquency charge, her sister, Bernice, 16, was charged with truancy, and their mother, Mrs. Salina Grant Cannon, was cited for contempt of court, but later released.

NEW WAGE PACT MAY BE SIGNED WITH OPERATORS

400,000 Men to Remain Out of Pits Unless Peace is Reached

LEWIS DAY OBSERVED

Committee of 16 Meets Thursday Afternoon

NEW YORK, April 1. — (UP)—A leading figure among coal operators negotiating the new Appalachian bituminous contract said today that an agreement seemed imminent and that it was hoped it could be concluded in time to permit 400,000 miners in a dozen states to resume work tomorrow.

This operator, who would not permit his name to be used, said that while producers on the negotiating committee of 16 put off action last night on a proposed compromise agreement, he believed, they were set to approve it today.

Conference Called

A meeting of the committee of 16, composed of operators and United Mine Workers representatives, was called for 3 p. m.

The full wage conference of 300 members was called to meet at 4 p. m. and it was hoped that conclusive action to ratify the agreement could be taken then.

The previous contract expired last midnight. Bituminous miners will not return to work until the new one is signed.

Mines were shut down today, but they have been anyway as April 1 is a holiday—"John L. Lewis Day."

Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, said that if a new contract was concluded late today or early the evening, he was prepared to telegraph all locals to resume work tomorrow.

More Time Desired

It was said that no vote was taken last night by operators on the negotiating committee but that they merely had desired more time to study the proposals formulated by a sub-committee. The last-minute controversy centered around the miners' demand for a 50-cent wage increase to $6 a day.

The upholsterer exhibited no signs of emotional stress during the 20-minute Catholic service for the murder victims—Mrs. Mary Gedeon, 54, and Veronica, pretty 20-year-old artist's model.

Inside the small, chapel there were about two dozen mourners including Gedeon, Mrs. Ethel Kudner, sister of the slain Veronica, and her husband, Joseph; Jean Karp, artist model friend of Miss Gedeon, Robert Flower, former husband of Miss Gedeon, and Stephen Butter, Jr., a Wall Street messenger with whom Miss Gedeon had her last date.

"The Brat", Junior Class Play, Thrills High School Audience Wednesday Eve

By HILDEBURN JONES, JR.

The curtain went up on another big smash hit, Wednesday evening. But it wasn't on Broadway—it was in Circleville. It was "The Brat", a three-act comedy written by Maude Fulton, and presented by Junior class of Circleville high school to a large and enthusiastic audience.

As have all his previous plays, "The Brat" brought much praise to its director, Roy Bowen, dramatics instructor. Eleven juniors held parts and all were splendid. The

costumes and set were also deserving of much credit.

The story of "The Brat" centers around a young and very unsophisticated urchin, picked out of a police docket by MacMillan Forrester, a famous author, and dubbed by him "the brat". He uses her as a model for a new novel and intends to throw back into the gutter when he is finished. However, in the meantime, Steve, MacMillan's young brother and the blacksheep of the family, falls in love with her. "The brat", as well as Angela

Smythe and Jane Depew, two young women of the upper strata, fancy herself in love with MacMillan who heretofore considered himself irresistible, but impregnable to women of all makes and models.

All Actors Do Well

The title role of "the Brat" was handled excellently by Mary Newmyer, who completely won her audience with her human and appealing interpretation of "the brat". Bob Fickardt, as Steve, was

The press "buried" the Republican party to the strains of a "funeral dirge" sung by the newsmen who identified themselves with huge placards bearing the names of such Ohio G. O. P. leaders as John W. Bricker, Clarence J. Brown, Myers Y. Cooper and David S. Ingalls.

F. D. Order New Deck
Although "Mr. Roosevelt" dealt the hand himself, he found his opponents held, among other things, a "Supreme Court." He immediately ordered two new decks and instructed a subordinate to "pick me out six aces."

In another scene a group of mortar-boarded and bespectacled "new dealers" exchanged vocal jibes with four members of the "Supreme Court" while the president looked on. Pointing their fingers accusingly at the justices, the new dealers sang, to the tune of "Three Blind Mice":

"Nine old men, nine old men, "All old and gray, all old and gray,

"At 70 years you retire with pay, "And Franklin D. can romp and play,

"Without the help of the stern and gray, "Nine old men."

Another skit showed the house of representatives appropriating $10,000 each for 20 members to attend King George's coronation. All went well until someone inquired if the funds would be approved.

Immediately, Arnette Harbage, (in person) jumped on the stage and told the representatives what he thought about "junket trips."

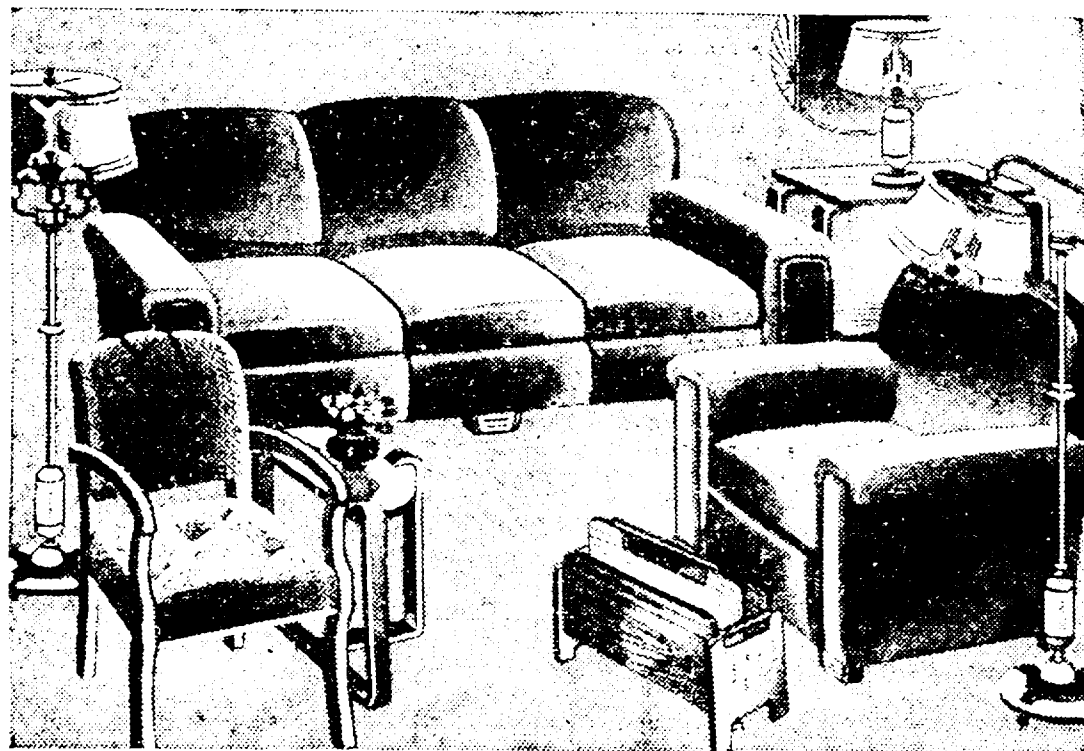

Governor Davey, who was unable to attend because of illness, was depicted in a Green Pastures scene as "Jehovah."

House Democrats to Turn

COLUMBUS, April 1—(UP)—Members of the legislature were split into two camps today over the date of adjournment, with house Republicans siding with the overwhelming Democratic senate's proposal to quit April 15 and house Democrats refusing to agree with it.

This development came following caucuses yesterday by both house Democrats and house Republicans.

Speaker Frank Uible, D., Cuyahoga, told reporters following the Democratic meeting that here had been "no agreement and very little progress."

"Action has been deferred on adjournment for a week or ten days," he said. "The caucus turned down every definite suggestion, including the April 15 adjournment date provided for in the resolution recently passed by the senate."

On the other hand Minority Floor Leader William M. McCulloch, Miami, spokesman for the Republican meeting, said Republicans were "ready to quit April 15."

New Gasoline Tax?
Meanwhile, Republicans generally expressed opposition to a measure, apparently administration-sanctioned, to increase the state tax on gasoline from three to four cents a gallon.

The proposal, drawn up by a sub-committee of the house highways committee, would raise about $10,000,000 annually for new road construction. The sub-committee recommended approval by the highways committee.

According to the bill, 60 percent of the funds would go to the state; 10 percent equally to the counties; 15 percent to townships equally and 15 percent to municipalities on a basis of motor vehicle registration.

Rep. W. P. Van Ness, R., Champaign, denounced the proposal but expressed fear it would obtain "considerable house support."

Powers Restricted
Meanwhile, by a vote of 22 to 3 the senate passed a bill limiting the jurisdiction of justice of the peace courts in criminal cases to the township in which the justice was appointed or elected on charges filed by the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, injured party or representative of the state or federal government.

The senate also passed as an emergency a bill introduced by Rep. Kenneth M. Petri, D., Crawford, providing uniform deposit regulations governing public funds. The house later concurred in senate amendments and sent the bill to the governor.

An appropriation of $500 for a tablet in Martins Ferry to commemorate the centennial birth of William Dean Howells was provided in a bill passed by the senate, 30 to 0, and sent to the house.

In the house, an emergency bill authorizing the director of highways to enter into agreements with the federal government on highway improvements when necessitated by river improvements was passed, 102 to 6.

The house also passed and sent to the governor a bill to reduce the license fee for farm trucks 40 percent.

May Probe Buckeye
Reps. Samuel A. Anderson, D., Licking and James F. Cody, D., Franklin, introduced a resolution proposing the appointment of a special committee to investigate the land lease situation at Buckeye Lake. The proposal grew out of a court decision holding certain lands were privately, rather than state, owned.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Comical adventures and misadventures of rich Americans in Paris provide the hilarity in "Mama Steps Out", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's satire on foreign travel which introduces a new comedy team in Guy Kibbee and Alice Brady. The picture comes to the Cliftona Theatre Friday on a double feature program.

The story deals with a rich manufacturer who takes his family for a trip to France. The wife gets ideas of "culture" which result in their Mediterranean villa being filled with eccentric personages including an odd novelist, artist and musician. Meantime the daughter of the family, destined by her mother to fall in love with a nobleman, elopes with an American crooner.

AT THE CIRCLE

Marsha Hunt, featured player in Paramount's "Desert Gold", the screen dramatization of Zane Grey's famous novel, now playing at the Circle Theatre, was fourteen years old before she learned her real first name.

Named after her great-grandmother, Marsha's grandmother vigorously objected on the grounds there were too many names in the family already beginning with M. She demanded that the baby girl be given another name but the christening had been performed and the name registered and birth certificate received.

Her parents, however, agreed they'd just call her Betty. Nor did the secret leak out till "Betty" was in pigtails, and her mother absent-mindedly told her.

So the young lady, who had wanted to be an actress from the time she was five, decided to use it, because she thought it was ever so much prettier than "Just Betty".

The irony is that she is beginning to like Betty again, and wanted to change back to it in her current picture "Desert Gold"—but the studio wouldn't let her!

But the saying that woman's place is in the home doesn't offend modern ones if the home has tires under it.

BETTER JOB - - - and at a Lower Cost!

Watkins Fly Spray has been recognized for a long time as one of the best on the market. Now it's better than ever before. You get more for your money, because it gives a faster knock-down, a greater kill and will repel flies for a longer time. Test after test has shown it to be much superior to anything I have sold before. It is clean and odorless, will not gum up the hair or hide of your cows and can be used in the barn or milkinghouse without tainting the milk. It is so clean that it can be used in the house, without staining or discoloring curtains, rugs or draperies. Buy Watkins Fly Spray and you get two in one, for you can use it both in the house and the barn.

It's economical, too, because many dairy men report that they have to buy only half as many gallons of Watkins Fly Spray to get the same results. It's cheaper because it goes further.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN TO DISCUSS LARGE PROGRAM

Numerous school matters are scheduled for discussion Thursday evening when county superintendents meet in the county offices.

The scholarship, elimination and eighth grade tests, oratorical contest and track meet will be discussed, and reports from the committees studying uniformity of high school text books and report card changes will be submitted.

The meeting was changed to Thursday night due to the scholarship examinations Saturday.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Comical adventures and misadventures of rich Americans in Paris provide the hilarity in "Mama Steps Out", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's satire on foreign travel which introduces a new comedy team in Guy Kibbee and Alice Brady. The picture comes to the Cliftona Theatre Friday on a double feature program.

The story deals with a rich manufacturer who takes his family for a trip to France. The wife gets ideas of "culture" which result in their Mediterranean villa being filled with eccentric personages including an odd novelist, artist and musician. Meantime the daughter of the family, destined by her mother to fall in love with a nobleman, elopes with an American crooner.

AT THE CIRCLE

Marsha Hunt, featured player in Paramount's "Desert Gold," the screen dramatization of Zane Grey's famous novel, now playing at the Circle Theatre, was fourteen years old before she learned her real first name.

Named after her great-grandmother, Marsha's grandmother vigorously objected on the grounds there were too many names in the family already beginning with M. She demanded that the baby girl be given another name but the christening had been performed and the name registered and birth certificate received.

Her parents, however, agreed they'd just call her Betty. Nor did the secret leak out till "Betty" was in pigtails and her mother absent-mindedly told her.

So the young lady, who had wanted to be an actress from the time she was five, decided to use it, because she thought it was ever so much prettier than "just Betty".

The irony is that she is beginning to like Betty again, and wanted to change back to it in her current picture "Desert Gold"—but the studio wouldn't let her!

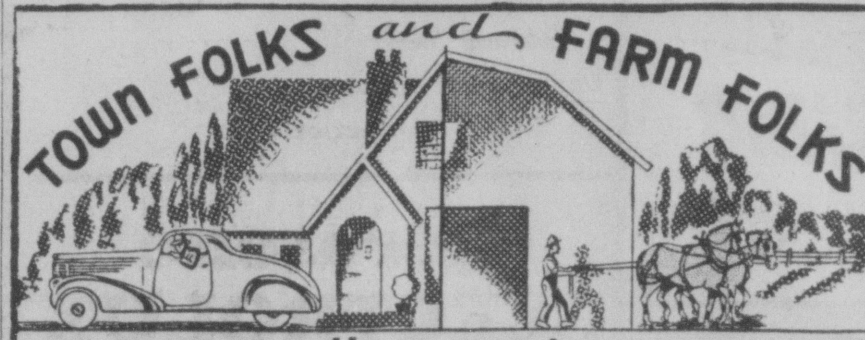

But the saying that woman's place is in the home doesn't offend modern ones if the home has tires under it.

U. S. Senator Hitchcock says: "Luckies please both my taste and my throat"

"For close to fifty years I have been a regular smoker, so I think I know what constitutes a good cigarette. Luckies please me on two scores. I like their fine flavor. But even more important is the fact that they are a light smoke, easy on my throat. At any rate, it's results that count, and a light smoke pleases both my taste and my throat."

Herbert E. Hitchcock

HON. HERBERT E. HITCHCOCK
U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH DAKOTA

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Hitchcock's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. Coronation Tattoo in June
At Aldershot to be Greatest Pageant

RECRUITING NECESSARY

National "Keep Fit" Drive to be Stressed

LONDON, April 1. (UPI)—The British army will present at Aldershot next June the greatest military pageant ever staged—the Coronation Tattoo proclaiming allegiance to and affection for the new King.

Incidentally, military authorities confidently hope that this last word in flag-waving will give needed stimulation to recruiting.

The tattoo is an annual affair to benefit army charities. Last year more than 5,000 troops in military uniforms of all the ages performed before 485,500 spectators. This year, in honor of the Coronation, the tattoo will be on a much more elaborate scale and already advance sale of tickets is more than double this time last year.

Special Music Written

Typical of the gigantic spectacle planned will be one number in which a military band of more than 1,000 musicians will play music written especially for occasion.

A modern battle, involving the extensive use of mechanized units, will show Britons their army in action. For comparison, another unit will portray the soldiers of Charles I demonstrating the drills and tactics of that ancient day.

Soldier-actors will re-enact the "Passage of the Douro," a stirring incident of the Peninsular war. Cavalry and infantry massed bands will march and wheel, playing entirely from memory the special, intricate tattoo music.

The banners of the dominions, colonies and states of the empire will parade and assemble in salute to the Union Jack.

"Keep Fit" To Be Stressed

A physical training display will be included as the army's contribution to the national "keep fit" campaign. Highlanders will swish their plaid kilts and lift bare knees high behind massed bands of bagpipes. Evolutions with lanterns will provide novel lighting effects of beauty.

The finale will be a royal pageant on a grand scale, introducing the banners and royal bodyguards of the kings and queens of England since William I.

Grandstands seating 80,000 persons have been built around the huge arena. Eight performances will be held, on June 10, 11, 12 and 15-19 inclusive.

Artillery Unit 400 Years Old

Another military spectacle among Coronation pageants will be the celebration by the Honorable Artillery Company of London of that organization's 400th birthday. On May 27 its infantry battalion and batteries will march past the King at Olympia as the

Six-Leaf Clovers Prized

TIPTON, Ia.—(UP)—The luck of Harold Eves, Tipton farmer, should never run out if there is truth in the adage that a four-leaf clover brings good luck to the finder. He has found and preserved a total of 3,200 of the lucky sprigs. In addition, Eves had 11 six-leaf clovers, a rarity of rarities.

U. S. Attache in Berlin Calls Four-Year Plan "Impressive" One

LOYD STEER QUOTED

Control Gone Farther in Germany Than U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 1—(UP)—The progress of Germany's four-year plan for agricultural self-sufficiency is "impressive," Lloyd V. Steere, U. S. agricultural attache at Berlin, has reported to the Department of Agriculture. Since 1933, Steere said, German agricultural policy particularly has emphasized the goal of national self-sufficiency. Since then, he said, reports of American agricultural products to Germany have declined to an exceedingly low level.

"The National Socialistic regime early set out to make Germany independent of foreign food supplies; and, although great progress has been made in that direction, it is realized now that absolute self-sufficiency cannot be obtained," Steere said.

Substitutes Are Evolved
Germany has made notable progress in the production of synthetic and substitute products, particularly in the raw-material field, and this endeavor seems to offer the greatest scope for the future, he said.

Government control of agriculture has gone much farther in Germany than in the United States, Steere reported. Imports of agricultural products have been strictly limited, compulsory utilization of certain domestic products extended and production subsidies set up, he said.

All farm and agricultural trade organizations have been incorporated into a central-control organization. This organization controls each stage of the movement of nearly all German farm products from producer to consumer, as to price and volume.

The aim has been to insure a profitable agriculture while guarding the consumers' interests, Steere explained. The government has contributed directly by land reclamation and other activities, to extension of physical resources of the country.

Four Year Term Marked
"The increased volume of production has clearly helped to reduce food and feed import requirements," Steere said. "The downward trend in imports in the past 10 years, in fact, became especially

General Johnson With Gestures

CAMERA catches Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, in an unusual pose as he urges approval of the Hill-Shepherd bill in appearance before the house military affairs committee in Washington. The bill would give the president dictatorial powers to regulate prices and draft the nation's industrial and financial resources for government service in case of war. At the same time, the U. S. senate passed the $322,847,808 "big navy" appropriation bill, providing $130,000,000 for ship construction and $29,186,000 for new airplanes during the fiscal year 1938. Opponents of the Hill-Shepherd bill say it would permit military authorities not only to draft men for military duties but impose drastic restrictions on workers, regardless of union contracts.

marked during the four years of National Socialistic regime."

Germany now produces between 81 and 82 per cent of its food and feed requirements, Steere said. He estimated that the maximum attainable because of limited land resources is 85 per cent of domestic consumption.

In a supreme effort to expand agricultural production, Germany has added 618,000,000 acres to cultivation since 1933, Steere said. A population increase of 400,000 to 500,000 persons a year has consumed most of the food from this added acreage.

To force consumption into line with domestic production, Steere said, the government has formed a "consumption steering" commission aimed at shaping consumer demand to conform as readily as possible to available food supplies.

Large Storage Planned
The four-year plan resembles in some ways Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's program for American agriculture, it was said. German officials plan a comprehensive storage or reserve program for agricultural products similar to Wallace's ever-normal granary.

German farmers are compelled to adopt soil conservation and utilization practices similar to voluntary practices under the Soil Conservation program here, Steere explained.

Steere quoted from official German records showing the Nazis now produce all of the bread grains, potatoes, sugar, edible tallow, and milk required for home consumption.

Germany produces 5 per cent of its fruit requirements, 91 per cent of vegetables, 95 per cent of bacon, 84 per cent of lard, 92 per cent of cheese, 97 per cent of all meats, and 83 per cent of eggs.

COLUMBUS, April 1—(UP)—Endorsed by house Democrats and Republicans alike, bills to increase the force of the Ohio Highway Patrol from 120 to 200 patrolmen and extend the patrol's jurisdiction were pending before the senate today.

By a vote of 112 to 4, the house passed the administration bill increasing the number of patrolmen and raising the radio staff from 25 to 30 and the clerical force from 25 to 35.

The house also passed unanimously a bill introduced by Rep. T. F. McElroy, D., Putnam, to include the patrol among the police officials to whom automobile thefts shall be reported.

Another bill, passed 103 to 0, would permit the patrol to retain the proceeds derived from sale of stolen, embezzled or abandoned property unclaimed after a six month period.

Minority Floor Leader William M. McCullough, Miami, in announcing the Republicans' support of the bills, jokingly proposed an amendment that would limit the governor's honor guard "to 25 patrolmen when visiting rural sections."

U. S. Attache in Berlin Calls Four-Year Plan "Impressive" One

LOYD STEER QUOTED

Control Gone Farther in Germany Than U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 1—(UP)—The progress of Germany's four-year plan for agricultural self-sufficiency is "impressive," Lloyd V. Steere, U. S. agricultural attache at Berlin, has reported to the Department of Agriculture.

Since 1933, Steere said, German agricultural policy particularly has emphasized the goal of national self-sufficiency. Since then, he said, exports of American agricultural products to Germany have declined to an exceedingly low level.

"The National Socialistic regime early set out to make Germany independent of foreign food supplies; and, although great progress has been made in that direction, it is realized now that absolute self-sufficiency cannot be obtained," Steere said.

Substitutes Are Evolved

Germany has made notable progress in the production of synthetic and substitute products, particularly in the raw-material field, and this endeavor seems to offer the greatest scope for the future, he said.

Government control of agriculture has gone much farther in Germany than in the United States, Steere reported. Imports of agricultural products have been strictly limited, compulsory utilization of certain domestic products extended and production subsidies set up, he said.

All farm and agricultural trade organizations have been incorporated into a central-control organization. This organization controls each stage of the movement of nearly all German farm products from producer to consumer, as to price and volume.

The aim has been to insure a profitable agriculture while guarding the consumers' interests, Steere explained. The government has contributed directly by land reclamation and other activities, to extension of physical resources of the country.

Four Year Term Marked

"The increased volume of production has clearly helped to reduce food and feed import requirements," Steere said. "The downward trend in imports in the past 10 years, in fact, became especially marked during the four years of National Socialistic regime."

Germany now produces between 81 and 82 per cent of its food and feed requirements, Steere said. He estimated that the maximum attainable because of limited land resources is 85 per cent of domestic consumption.

In a supreme effort to expand agricultural production, Germany has added 618,000,000 acres to cultivation since 1933, Steere said. A population increase of 400,000 to 500,000 persons a year has consumed most of the food from this added acreage.

To force consumption into line with domestic production, Steere said, the government has formed a "consumption steering" commission aimed at shaping consumer demand to conform as readily as possible to available food supplies.

Large Storage Planned

The four-year plan resembles in some ways Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's program for American agriculture, it was said. German officials plan a comprehensive storage or reserve program for agricultural products similar to Wallace's ever-normal granary.

German farmers are compelled to adopt soil conservation and utilization practices similar to voluntary practices under the Soil Conservation program here, Steere explained.

Steere quoted from official German records showing the Nazis now produce all of the bread grains, potatoes, sugar, edible tallow, and milk required for home consumption.

Germany produces 5 per cent of its fruit requirements, 91 per cent of vegetables, 95 per cent of bacon, 84 per cent of lard, 92 per cent of cheese, 97 per cent of all meats, and 83 per cent of eggs.

General Johnson With Gestures

CAMERA catches Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, in an unusual pose as he urges approval of the Hill-Shepherd bill in appearance before the house military affairs committee in Washington. The bill would give the president dictatorial powers to regulate prices and draft the nation's industrial and financial resources for government service in case of war. At the same time, the U. S. senate passed the $522,847,808 "big navy" appropriation bill, providing $130,000,000 for ship construction and $29,186,000 for new airplanes during the fiscal year 1938. Opponents of the Hill-Shepherd bill say it would permit military authorities not only to draft men for military duties but impose drastic restrictions on workers, regardless of union contracts.

Run Into Millions

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(UP)—Assistant Attorney General James W. Morris believes it is necessary to investigate and foster improvements wherever possible in tax litigation to end delays which cause interest charges of $22,500,000 annually.

"We are defending suits today involving almost every tax year since the passage of the 16th amendment," said Morris, who is in charge of the tax division of the department of justice. "Most of our ordinary run of cases are not closed until at least 30 years after the dates the taxes were due," he added.

Morris pointed out that at the end of the 1936 fiscal year there were suits pending in courts for refund involving approximately $240,000,000.

"In the past," he said, "the government has lost approximately 30 per cent of these cases. On the refund made when the government loses, 6 per cent interest must be paid to the taxpayer. Each year's delay, then, in the disposition of these cases costs the government in interest alone well over $4,000,000."

He described the expense to the taxpayer as being "even greater." "It brings proceedings before the board of tax appeals," Morris said, "the must pay 6 per cent interest on that part of the assessment which is finally approved."

The cases pending before the board on June 30, 1936, involved more than $200,000,000. Experience has shown that over 60 per cent of the assessments are normally affirmed. Each year's delay, then, in the disposition of these cases costs the taxpayers in interest alone over $18,500,000.

Morris said that because the cited figures do not include the much greater amounts tied up awaiting the outcome of test cases, the total interest cost of delay in tax litigation cannot be exactly computed. He said it "clearly reaches staggering proportions."

He said interest cost is not the only expensive feature of extended tax controversies. Other losses arise from the fact that (1) if the government's interpretation of the laws was wrong it is not discovered until too late to collect taxes on the correct theory; (2) "loopholes" in the law are not indicated for legislative correction until they have been in existence many years; (3) the taxpayer may discover after many years that he has been conducting his business in a disadvantageous way for tax purposes.

The centralization of supervision of tax cases in our division has given us many tools for the speeding up of this work," said Morris, who added there was no "ready-made solution."

The tax division seeks to obtain special settings of tax cases in district and circuit courts as one particular method of expediting the litigation. Compromise agreements also are used by the division to forestall litigation.

The tax division in the department of justice was created three years ago.

PAPER OUTPUT FROM SOUTH'S PINE TO GROW

Eleven Major Pulp Plants
Operating Now, With
More Planned

ALL GRADES AVAILABLE

Slash Wood Can Be Grown
In 7 to 15 Years

ATLANTA, April 1.—(UP)—The South apparently is on the threshold of greater industrial and agricultural advancement due to conclusive tests that slash and other pine will make newspaper and paper of all grades.

Plans already are producing craft paper—low grades used for sacks, wrapping and similar purposes—and several more are contemplated. And announcement of a $5,000,000 newspaper manufacturing plant in East Columbia to begin the beginning of that industry, the South. Plans are being formulated for at least one additional plant east of the Mississippi River, the United Press learned.

The eleven major pulp and paper plants established in the South during the past three years now are producing more than 1,000,000 tons of paper annually. The total investment in the paper industry in the South is $80,000,000.

The United States last year imported more than $22,000,000 worth of pulp and paper, while it produced 10,506,195 tons, valued at $856,115,565, according to the "Manufactures" Record, published at Baltimore.

Of this total, 1,221,871 tons were newsprint, valued at $48,496,838. The tremendous advance in the paper industry for the South followed tests made by Dr. Charles H. Herty, a chemist, which showed southern pine not only good for newsprint but also for any grade paper.

The industry received further impetus by Dr. Herty's assertions that slash pine sufficient for paper-making can be grown in 7 to 15 years, as compared to 40 to 60 years required in Canada and elsewhere. The slash pine industry in the South is now being developed here.

This quick growth tends to eliminate the fears that development of the industry in the South would soon consume all available pine. Latest estimates show that the South can produce 50,000,000 cords of pulpwood yearly, whereas the present consumption is only about 12,000,000.

Nevertheless, a sound reforestation policy must be followed with development of the industry, Dr. Herty and manufacturers agree. James C. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Tennessean, a leader in establishment of the newsprint industry in the South, said the new industry must plan for the future and use adequate conservation methods.

We cannot afford to denude the 200,000,000 acres of pine lands which are standing, but we must engage in a definite program of reforestation, protection and cultivation to keep our timberlands from being destroyed," Stahlman said.

The availability of timber and power are the chief assets in development of the paper industry, according to statistics of the industrial division of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. Careful reforestation will make timber available for all time and existing power facilities are sufficient for intense manufacturing development, it was agreed.

Other favorable factors include cheap labor in some instances, and more favorable climatic conditions.

Dr. Herty estimates that the south will be able to make paper at a cost of around $27 per ton as

TAX SUITS LAG, MILLIONS LOST, U. S. PERPLEXED

Cummings' Aid Reports
"Ready-Made Solution"

MANY CASES LOST

Interest Charges Annually
Run Into Millions

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(UP)—Assistant Attorney General James V. Morris believes it is necessary to investigate and foster improvements wherever possible in tax litigation to end delays which cause interest charges of $22,500,000 annually.

"We are defending suits today involving almost every tax year since the passage of the 16th amendment," said Morris, who is in charge of the tax division of the department of justice.

"Most of our ordinary run of cases are not closed until at least 10 years after the date the taxes were due," he added.

Morris pointed out that at the end of the 1936 fiscal year there were suits pending in court for refund involving approximately $240,000,000.

Third of Cases Lost

"In the past," he said, "the government has lost approximately 30 per cent of these cases. On the refund made when the government loses, 6 per cent interest must be paid to the taxpayer. Each year's delay, then, in the disposition of these cases costs the government in interest alone well over $4,000,000."

He described the expense to the taxpayer as being "even greater."

"If he brings proceedings before the board of tax appeals," Morris said, "he must pay 5 per cent interest on that part of the assessment which is finally approved."

"The cases pending before the board and on appeal from the board on June 30, 1936, involved more than $320,000,000. Experience has shown that over 60 per cent of the assessment are normally affirmed. Each year's delay, then, in the disposition of these cases costs the taxpayers in interest alone over $18,500,000."

Large Amounts Tied Up

Morris said that because the cited figures do not include the much greater amounts tied up awaiting the outcome of test cases, the total interest cost of delay in tax litigation cannot be exactly computed. He said it "clearly reaches staggering proportions."

He said interest cost is not the only expensive feature of extended tax controversies. Other losses arise from the fact that: (1) If the government's interpretation of the law was wrong it is not discovered until too late to collect taxes on the correct theory; (2) "loopholes" in the law are not indicated for legislative correction until they have been in existence many years; (3) the taxpayer may discover after many years that he has been conducting his business in a disadvantageous way for tax purposes.

Tax Cases Speeded

"The centralization of supervision of tax cases in our division has given us many tools for the speeding up of this work," said Morris, who added there was no "ready-made solution."

The tax division seeks to obtain special settings of tax cases in district and circuit courts as one particular method of expediting the litigation. Compromise agreements also are used by the division to forestall litigation.

The tax division in the department of justice was created three years ago.

PAPER OUTPUT FROM SOUTH'S PINE TO GROW

Eleven Major Pulp Plants
Operating Now, With
More Planned

ALL GRADES AVAILABLE

Slash Wood Can Be Grown
in 7 to 15 Years

ATLANTA, April 1 — (UP)—The South apparently is on the threshold of greater industrial and agricultural advancement due to conclusive tests that slash and other pine will make newsprint and paper of all grades.

A dozen paper manufacturing plants already are producing craft paper—low grades used for sacks, wrapping and similar purposes—and several more are contemplated.

Announcement of a $5,000,000 newsprint manufacturing plant in East Texas marks the beginning of that industry in the South. Plans are being formulated for at least one additional plant on the Mississippi River, the United Press learned.

The eleven major pulp and paper plants established in the South during the past three years now are producing most of the craft paper used in the United States. The total investments in these new plants is more than $80,000,000.

The United States last year imported more than $222,000,000 worth of pulp and paper, which produced 10,906,195 tons, valued at $66,615,565, according to the Manufacturers' Record, published at Baltimore.

Of this total, 1,231,871 tons were newsprint, valued at $49,496,538. The tremendous advance in the paper industry for the South followed tests made by Dr. Charles H. Herty, Georgia chemist, which showed southern pine not only good for newsprint but also for any grade paper.

The industry received further impetus by Dr. Herty's assertions that slash pine sufficient for paper-making can be grown in 7 to 15 years, as compared to 40 to 60 years required in Canada and northern United States where the paper industry heretofore has been centered.

This quick growth tends to eliminate the fears that development of the industry in the South would consume all available pine. Latest estimates show that the South can produce 50,000,000 cords of pulpwood yearly, whereas the present consumption is only about 12,000,000.

Nevertheless, a sound reforestation policy must be followed with development of the industry, Dr. Herty and manufacturers agree.

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, and leader in establishment of the newsprint industry in the South, said the new industry must plan for the future and use adequate conservation methods.

"We cannot afford to denude the 200,000,000 acres of pine lands which are standing, but we must engage in a definite program of reforestation, protection and cultivation, to keep our timberlands from being destroyed," Stahlman said.

The availability of timber and power are the chief assets in development of the paper industry, according to statistics of the industrial division of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. Careful reforestation will make timber available for all time and existing power facilities are sufficient for intense manufacturing development. It was agreed.

Other favorable factors include nearness to Southern markets, cheaper labor in some instances, and more favorable climatic conditions.

Dr. Herty estimates that the south will be able to make paper at a cost of around $27 per ton as compared to $47 in the new principal producing areas.

A subsidiary industry is being developed along with the paper manufacturing — manufacture of "pine felt" from pine needles gathered and sold by farmers for approximately $4 a ton. The felt is used for upholstering, mattress filling and similar purposes.

PAPER OUTPUT FROM SOUTH'S PINE TO GROW

Eleven Major Pulp Plants
Operating Now, With
More Planned

ALL GRADES AVAILABLE

Slash Wood Can Be Grown
in 7 to 15 Years

ATLANTA, April 1 — (UP)—The South apparently is on the threshold of greater industrial and agricultural advancement due to conclusive tests that slash and other pine will make newsprint and paper of all grades.

A dozen paper manufacturing plants already are producing craft paper—low grades used for sacks, wrapping and similar purposes—and several more are contemplated.

Announcement of a $5,000,000 newsprint manufacturing plant in East Texas marks the beginning of that industry in the South. Plans are being formulated for at least one additional plant on the Mississippi River, the United Press learned.

The eleven major pulp and paper plants established in the South during the past three years now are producing most of the craft paper used in the United States. The total investments in these new plants is more than $80,000,000.

The United States last year imported more than $222,000,000 worth of pulp and paper, which produced 10,906,195 tons, valued at $66,615,565, according to the Manufacturers' Record, published at Baltimore.

Of this total, 1,231,871 tons were newsprint, valued at $49,496,538. The tremendous advance in the paper industry for the South followed tests made by Dr. Charles H. Herty, Georgia chemist, which showed southern pine not only good for newsprint but also for any grade paper.

The industry received further impetus by Dr. Herty's assertions that slash pine sufficient for paper-making can be grown in 7 to 15 years, as compared to 40 to 60 years required in Canada and northern United States where the paper industry heretofore has been centered.

This quick growth tends to eliminate the fears that development of the industry in the South would consume all available pine. Latest estimates show that the South can produce 50,000,000 cords of pulpwood yearly, whereas the present consumption is only about 12,000,000.

Nevertheless, a sound reforestation policy must be followed with development of the industry, Dr. Herty and manufacturers agree.

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, and leader in establishment of the newsprint industry in the South, said the new industry must plan for the future and use adequate conservation methods.

"We cannot afford to denude the 200,000,000 acres of pine lands which are standing, but we must engage in a definite program of reforestation, protection and cultivation, to keep our timberlands from being destroyed," Stahlman said.

The availability of timber and power are the chief assets in development of the paper industry, according to statistics of the industrial division of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. Careful reforestation will make timber available for all time and existing power facilities are sufficient for intense manufacturing development. It was agreed.

Other favorable factors include nearness to Southern markets, cheaper labor in some instances, and more favorable climatic conditions.

Dr. Herty estimates that the south will be able to make paper at a cost of around $27 per ton as compared to $47 in the new principal producing areas.

A subsidiary industry is being developed along with the paper manufacturing — manufacture of "pine felt" from pine needles gathered and sold by farmers for approximately $4 a ton. The felt is used for

DEFLATED DICTATORS

THE hope that the grave international aspects of the Spanish situation might become less critical arose from London reports that Italy would abandon military operations in Spain. It has been dispelled by Spanish information from "an absolutely reliable source" that Italy is planning to send 100,000 men to Spain to fight with the rebels for a Fascist victory.

This latter news, while disturbing to the peace of the world, is more easy to accept as reflecting the temper of Mussolini, who has just been required by the fortunes of war to endure the most humiliating experience of his regime—the demoralized rout of his troops by the embattled Spanish Loyalists while his boasts of their invincibility were still fresh on his lips.

If Mussolini is to permit the record to stand as it was left by the defeat and the retreat at Guadalajara, he must necessarily appear before the world as an idle boaster. For years both he and Hitler have been filling the air with menacing utterances, all having their origin in the power of their military organizations and the perfection of their equipment. But when a test comes against first class fighting men, though poorly equipped and inadequately trained, the troops of Mussolini are driven back in disorder and the tanks and planes of Hitler prove pitifully ineffective.

In consequence, the world at large has not hesitated to raise a Bronx cheer for Mussolini and to give Hitler the berries, as it has so often in the past. The experience has been gall and wormwood for both of these self-centered gentlemen, who are put to the necessity of saving face, as it is described in the Orient, or preserving their prestige, as the process is referred to at home. Unless they accomplish this purpose they will stand before the world as deflated dictators. And deflated dictators, as all the world knows quite well, do not long survive.

Having effaced to his own satisfaction the disgrace of Adowa by shedding the blood of a few thousand Ethiopians, Mussolini has now caused a new Adowa to arise in the neighborhood of Madrid to disturb his days of labor and his nights of rest. If he abandons his Spanish adventure the record will say he was driven out of Spain by the Loyalists. Any attempt at vindication must involve an outright participation in the rebellion.

National prestige is a high explosive. It is now a factor in the "Little World War" and it may easily provide the spark needed for a conflagration.

HULL'S SYMPATHY WITH LOYALISTS

WASHINGTON — Aside from the very real danger that the Spanish civil war may bring war flames for all Europe, Secretary of State Hull is keenly worried about the Spanish combat itself.

He tells close friends that nothing can be more devastating to a nation and its people than civil strife. And he illustrates his point with the experiences of his own family during the war between the North and the South.

His family, he explains, lived in Tennessee, in a section of the country split between the two sides. It was impossible for them to stay neutral. The result was that different members of the family joined opposing sides, and the family was torn to pieces.

Privately, Hull's sympathies are very much with the Spanish Government, though he believes firmly that the United States must remain absolutely neutral. Some of his underlings, however, have thrown their weight sub rosa toward the Fascist insurgents.

TEN COMMANDMENTS

New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora's two-fisted advocacy of the President's court plan drew a barrage of sharp questions from opposition Senators. In the course of a brisk exchange with Senator "Long Tom" Connally, Pecora made a reference to the Ten Commandments:

Snapped Connally: "I don't think either one of us is an authority on the Ten Commandments."

"Probably not," returned Pecora sweetly, "but I least have read them."

"And I," retorted Connally, flushing angrily at the wave of laughter that greeted Pecora's sly barb, "endeavor to observe them. And now, Mr. Chairman, having reached the Ten Commandments I think it is a good place to stop."

"Yes," observed Pecora reflectively, "they stop a lot of people."

own communities, where their own children are in school.

Different answers to this question will be given in different communities, all depending upon the building codes that govern schools and the degree of care or negligence with which regulations to safeguard the lives of children are enforced.

There have been many school disasters during recent years to bring death to little children and grief to cities and towns. At a school in Bab's Switch, Okla., in 1924 37 children were killed in a fire because wire netting had been placed over the windows to keep out intruders.

At Camden, South Carolina, in 1923, 73 children were burned to death because Kerosene lamps were used to light a stage. Because the doors of a schoolhouse in Cleveland swung inward and not outward, 178 children were burned to death.

These disasters and others should cause school authorities and parents to give serious thought and attention to the condition of the buildings in which children spend a great part of their time.

It is better to make these conditions the subject of inquiry now, rather than at some future time, after they have become the stage of a drama.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

NOTES taken on the run:
All the leading aspirants to the presidency on the New Deal side are former Republicans — John L. Lewis, Harold L. Ickes and Henry A. Wallace.

LEWIS

Lewis formerly was known by the rank and file of the United Mine Workers as a conservative or reactionary. That was when, at governmental demands, "in the public interest," he compromised demands and strikes. He later said he found he and the men got the worse of it when they yielded to the corporations "in the public interest." That's why he holds out longer now.

THUGS

Unions are saying that as one result of unionization, "company thugs" are disappearing from steel towns. In fact, the towns now are becoming as dangerous for thugs as they formerly were for union organizers.

BOUQUET TO HULL

Ocean shipping interests are all for Secretary of State Hull. They say that ocean freight is setting a record. They place the credit on

Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade treaties.

GLOOM CHASER

In these days of market setbacks, Prophet Roger Babson remains an optimist. He "makes a strong assertion" that "1937 will be our first year of real prosperity since 1929." But be careful of the stocks and property you buy. They will have to be proof against inflation collapse—due a year or two hence. (If other prophets can be relied upon.)

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Germany and Poland are angry over their failure to detach and isolate democratic Czechoslovakia from the Little Entente — which contains, also, Rumania and Yugoslavia. These mid-European countries fail to respond any more to the cry of alarm—"Bolshevism." They are more afraid of Naziism. France thus remains potent. But the Nazis are spending large sums to spread Nazi cells through other nations.

CHILD LABOR

The National Child Labor committee has published and distributed results of a poll on the child labor amendment conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion (Dr. Gallup's poll). Says the committee, "Seventy-six per cent thought the nation reported that they were in favor of the federal child labor amendment. In every state without exception majority sentiment was for it. In two states, New Hampshire, which has ratified, and Rhode Island, where action is pending, favorable replies rose to 88 per cent. The poll shows a striking increase in sentiment for the amendment, as compared with the previous poll taken by the institute nine months ago, when the percentage favoring the amendment was 63."

Proponents look for ratification by the necessary remaining eight states by 1938—due largely to the increasing number of children being put into adult jobs.

(In a survey made by this column some months ago, the writer said ratification was not probable in 1937, but was in 1938.)

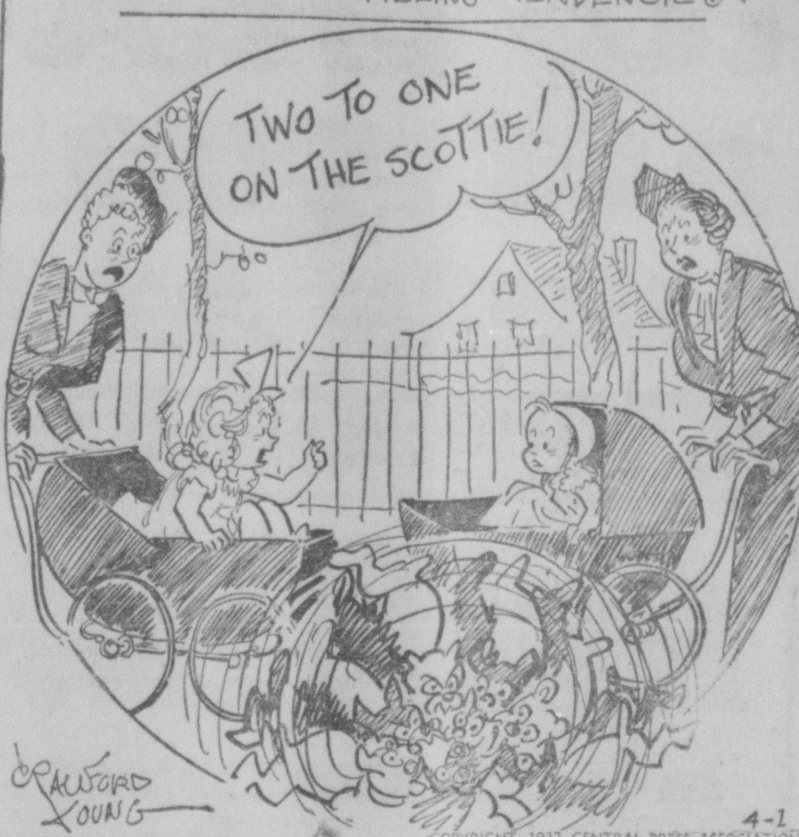

F. D. R. TO GAIN?

New Dealers expect to take over two more senate seats in 1938. One is that of "Puddler Jim" (James J.) Davis, of Pennsylvania. The other is that of Frederick Steiwer, of Oregon.

Whooping Cough Vaccine for Prevention Only

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I POINTED OUT yesterday that the regular annual 300,000 outbreak of whooping cough in the United States reaches its peak in April, and leaves a mortality of 6,000 in its wake.

That is enough to make one regard it as a serious disease. All the more have public health officials been watching the progress in preventive vaccination against whooping cough.

Louis Sauer of Evanston, Ill., began enthusiastically to prove, about 1925, that he could wipe whooping cough off the face of the earth. He has been at it ever since.

At first his work was regarded with skepticism. Public health workers were not all convinced that the germ he was working with was the real cause of whooping cough.

Dr. Sauer continued, however, to gather facts. He started a series of experiments to prove his point. He began giving vaccine against whooping cough to only one child in a family. But all the children went to school. In the course of time, whooping cough would hit the school. Finally Dr. Sauer had this kind of record to show: In 25 families, 32 children had been vaccinated, had gone through an epidemic of whooping cough in their schools, and had not contracted it, while 31 of their brothers and sisters, similarly exposed, all came down with it.

The final, and what seems to be the clinching case, was of four brothers near the same age. The two youngest were vaccinated against whooping cough, the two oldest were not. When the epidemic of whooping cough came along, the two unvaccinated boys came down with it right away. The two vaccinated ones lived in the same house with the infected brothers all through the attack, and had absolutely no symptoms or discomfort whatever. This observation is so convincing because all of them were living under the same conditions of hygiene, eating the same food, etc.

It takes some time to make the observations on such things. You cannot just say that if a child is vaccinated and doesn't take the disease in a year, it is immunized. It may not have been exposed. But now Dr. Sauer has careful records, eleven years in duration, which seem to me to prove conclusively that he has actually found a way to prevent this dreadful scourge.

Inasmuch as it affects young infants, it is best to give the immunization before the second half-year. Dr. Sauer, recognizing that it is not advisable to attempt to immunize against several diseases simultaneously, suggests the following plan: immunize against whooping cough during the second half-year, against diphtheria four months later, against smallpox four months later still.

The immunization requires three doses of vaccine at intervals of one week. No bad symptoms have ever followed an injection.

The vaccine is of no value in treatment of established whooping cough—only prevention.

Charles Stuckey, of a London law firm, reluctantly has agreed to a scheme to defraud the daughter of one of his few respectable clients, Jacqueline Smith, of an inheritance of $1,500,000 from an American uncle. In keeping with the plan, Colonel Alex Lutman, who has a hold over Stuckey, and Jim Asson, an ex-convict, are stopping at the same hotel in Cincinnati with Mrs. Smith and her daughter. Jim hopes to marry the girl, having her assign her property to him, before Stuckey informs her of her inheritance. In dire financial straits, Mrs. Smith already is impressed with Jim, posing as a wealthy Englishman, as an admirable "catch" for her daughter. Lutman, in the role of Jim's trustee, subtly threatens Jacqueline with a check he cashed for her mother, returned marked "insufficient funds."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 15

JACQUELINE suddenly got up from her chair, strode into the hotel, knocked at the door of her mother's bedroom, and went in. Mrs. Smith, with her eyes closed and a wisp of handkerchief grasped in her hand, was lying on the bed.

"Mother!"

The older woman opened her eyes and closed them again.

"What is it, Jacqueline?" she said in a weary voice. "I don't want to be disturbed just now."

"I've been talking to Colonel Lutman."

"Yes, dear. So have I. At least, he has been talking to me. I'm feeling dreadfully upset. I had no idea Colonel Lutman had such a hasty temper. He shouted."

"He has told me about the check."

Mrs. Smith opened her eyes. "Well?"

"Mother, what on earth made you do a thing like that? It's awful. It's fraud—cheating—you must have known there was no money there."

"Yes, dear, of course I did."

"Yet you wrote a check and asked Colonel Lutman to cash it?"

"No, dear. I didn't ask him. He offered. I suppose I let slip that I was a little short of money, and he said he'd be pleased to cash a check for me, and I did it. But I never dreamed the bank wouldn't give him the money for it. I've often overdrawn my account before."

"But for $750, mother—as much as two quarters' allowance from Uncle Alan!"

"Well, the bank would have got it back, Jacqueline, in due course, and I really had to have it. I'm sure I don't know where all the money goes. It's no use getting cross with me, Jacqueline. Colonel Lutman wasn't at all nice about it, and I really can't stand any more. Look on the dressing table, dear, will you? I believe there's a bottle of aspirin."

Jacqueline did not move.

"I suppose you realize, mother," she said, "that if Colonel Lutman has gone to the police..."

"Oh, yes. I realize that. Colonel Lutman told me. I was an unscrupulous woman, he said, and he could put me in prison if he chose to. It's the first time anybody has called me an unscrupulous woman, and I'm terribly hurt about it, dear."

"You're telling me!"

"I'm not going to do it, Jacqueline," said her mother firmly. "I'm not going to let you do it. I—I can't. It's all I've got, and I don't care what anybody thinks of me—I'm not going to give it up. If it's fraud and cheating and all that sort of thing—then I'll be a fraud and a cheat."

"Mother! I wonder you're not ashamed!"

"That's it—now you turn against me, Jacqueline. Ashamed! Perhaps I am ashamed. Perhaps—all these years, lying and pretending and using nasty little subterfuges—perhaps I've always been ashamed. You've never thought of that, have you? You've thought I was hard, unprincipled, that as long as I could have nice food and pretty clothes I didn't care what petty little meanness I used to get them. But I didn't mind your thinking that as long as I could somehow keep going and give you everything you needed."

"Mother—please!"

Mrs. Smith dabbed her eyes with her wisp of handkerchief.

"You've thought I was just a deceitful, conceited, selfish woman," she went on, "who didn't realize the cheap, contemptible sort of life I was leading. But I've always realized, and I've always hated it just as much as you have, and now you're turning against me!"

Suddenly she buried her face in the pillow, sobbing.

Jacqueline went to her and laid a hand on her shoulder.

"Mother!"

"No—leave me alone, Jacqueline. You don't understand—you've never understood. I've kept struggling on, trying to do my best for you, and you've only despised me."

"Mother, I haven't despised you. And I have realized. I've often thought how wonderful you were."

"So you may have done, Jacqueline," sobbed her mother, "but you've never done anything to help me. I've tried so hard to fix everything for you so that you shouldn't have to live the sort of life I've lived, and you've never backed me up. There was that charming young fellow in Paris with more money than he knew what to do with. He was dreadfully in love with you, and everything would have been splendid if you'd married him, but you ruined everything—just because he hadn't a great deal of chin."

SENATOR GERALD NYE of North Dakota has asked the state department to inform him as to just what nations are, at this time, at war, and just how many wars are going on.

The state department came back at Senator Nye with another question: what kind of war does he mean? Official or unofficial? Civil or uncivil? Domestic or imported?

Well, Mr. Nye, in Spain, for instance, we understand there are at least six wars going on at the same time. This beats a three-ring circus, but is not nearly as amusing.

Spain is engaged in civil strife which makes it a strictly domestic war. But foreigners, and plenty of them, are fighting on two opposing sides, so it is an imported war, too.

The Loyalists and Rebels in Spain are engaged in an official war against each other, but it is strongly hinted that Italy, Germany, Russia and maybe a couple of other nations are involved, though they aren't supposed to be. That makes for War No. 4.

The Spanish struggle is really a civil war (No. 5), but both sides have been acting in a very uncivil manner toward each other and there you have War No. 6.

DEFLATED DICTATORS

THE hope that the grave international aspects of the Spanish situation might become less critical arose from London reports that Italy would abandon military operations in Spain. It has been dispelled by Spanish information from "an absolutely reliable source" that Italy is planning to send 100,000 men to Spain to fight with the rebels for a Fascist victory.

This latter news, while disturbing to the peace of the world, is more easy to accept as reflecting the temper of Mussolini, who has just been required by the fortunes of war to endure the most humiliating experience of his regime—the demoralized rout of his troops by the embattled Spanish Loyalists while his boasts of their invincibility were still fresh on his lips.

If Mussolini is to permit the record to stand as it was left by the defeat and the retreat at Guadalajara, he must necessarily appear before the world as an idle boaster. For years both he and Hitler have been filling the air with menacing utterances, all having their origin in the power of their military organizations and the perfection of their equipment. But when a test comes against first class fighting men, though poorly equipped and inadequately trained, the troops of Mussolini are driven back in disorder and the tanks and planes of Hitler prove pitifully ineffective.

In consequence, the world at large has not hesitated to raise a Bronx cheer for Mussolini and to give Hitler the berries, as it has so often in the past. The experience has been gall and wormwood for both of these self-centered gentlemen, who are put to the necessity of saving face, as it is described in the Orient, or preserving their prestige, as the process is referred to at home. Unless they accomplish this purpose they will stand before the world as deflated dictators. And deflated dictators, as all the world knows quite well, do not long survive.

Having effaced to his own satisfaction the disgrace of Adowa by shedding the blood of a few thousand Ethiopians, Mussolini has now caused a new Adowa to arise in the neighborhood of Madrid to disturb his days of labor and his nights of rest. If he abandons his Spanish adventure the record will say he was driven out of Spain by the Loyalists. Any attempt at vin-dication must involve an outright participation in the rebellion.

National prestige is a high explosive. It is now a factor in the "Little World War"
and it may easily provide the spark needed for a conflagration.

HULL'S SYMPATHY WITH LOYALISTS
WASHINGTON — Aside from the very real danger that the Spanish civil war may bring war flames for all Europe, Secretary of State Hull is keenly worried about the Spanish combat itself.

He tells close friends that nothing can be more devastating to a nation and its people than civil strife. And he illustrates his point with the experiences of his own family during the war between the North and the South.

His family, he explains, lived in Tennessee, in a section of the country split between the two sides. It was impossible for them to stay neutral. The result was that different members of the family joined opposing sides, and the family was torn to pieces.

Privately, Hull's sympathies are very much with the Spanish Government, though he believes firmly that the United States must remain absolutely neutral.
Some of his underlings, however, have thrown their weight sub rosa toward the Fascist insurgents.

TEN COMMANDMENTS

New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora's two-fisted advocacy of the President's court plan drew a barrage of sharp questions from opposition Senators.
In the course of a brisk exchange with Senator "Long Tom" Connally, Pecora made a reference to the Ten Commandments:

Snapped Connally: "I don't think either one of us is an authority on the Ten Commandments."

"Probably not," returned Pecora sweetly, "but I least have read them."

"And I," retorted Connally, flushing angrily at the wave of laughter that greeted Pecora's sly barb, "endeavor to observe them. And now, Mr. Chairman, having reached the Ten Commandments I think it is a good place to stop."

"Yes," observed Pecora reflectively,
"they stop a lot of people."

own communities, where their own children are in school.

Different answers to this question will be given in different communities, all depending upon the building codes that govern schools and the degree of care or negligence with which regulations to safeguard the lives of children are enforced.

There have been many school disasters during recent years to bring death to little children and grief to cities and towns. At a school in Bab's Switch, Okla., in 1924 37 children were killed in a fire because wire netting had been placed over the windows to keep out intruders.

At Camden, South Carolina, in 1923, 73 children were burned to death because Kerosene lamps were used to light a stage.
Because the doors of a schoolhouse in Cleveland swung inward and not outward, 178 children were burned to death.

These disasters and others should cause school authorities and parents to give serious thought and attention to the condition of the buildings in which children spend a great part of their time.

It is better to make these conditions the subject of inquiry now, rather than at some future time, after they have become the stage of a drama.

Whooping Cough Vaccine for Prevention Only

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I POINTED OUT yesterday that the regular annual 300,000 outbreak of whooping cough in the United States reaches its peak in April, and leaves a mortality of 6,000 in its wake. That is enough to make one regard it as a serious disease.

All the more have public health officials been watching the progress of preventive vaccination against whooping cough.

Louis Sauer of Evanston, Ill., began enthusiastically to prove, about 1925, that he could wipe whooping cough off the face of the earth. He has been at it ever since.
At first his work was regarded with skepticism. Public health workers were not all convinced that the germ he was working with was the real cause of whooping cough.

Dr. Sauer continued, however, to gather facts. He started a series of experiments to prove his point.
He began giving vaccine against whooping cough to only one child in a family. But all the children went to school. In the course of time, whooping cough would hit the school. Finally Dr. Sauer had this kind of record to show: In 25 families, 32 children had been vaccinated, had gone through an epidemic of whooping cough in their schools, and had not contracted it, while 31 of their brothers and sisters, similarly exposed, all came down with it.

The final, and what seems to be the clinching case, was of four brothers near the same age. The two youngest were vaccinated against whooping cough, the two oldest were not. When the epidemic of whooping cough came along, the two unvaccinated boys came down with it right away. The two vaccinated ones lived in the same house with the infected brothers all through the attack, and had absolutely no symptoms or discomfort whatever. This observation is so convincing because all of them were living under the same conditions of hygiene, eating the same food, etc.

It takes some time to make the observations on such things. You cannot just say that if a child is vaccinated and doesn't take the disease in a year, it is immunized. It may not have been exposed. But now Dr. Sauer has careful records, eleven years in duration, which seem to me to prove conclusively that he has actually found a way to prevent this dreadful scourge.

Inasmuch as it affects young infants, it is best to give the immunization before the second half-year. Dr. Sauer, recognizing that it is not advisable to attempt to immunize against several diseases simultaneously, suggests the following plan: immunize against whooping cough during the second half-year, against diphtheria four months later, against smallpox four months later still.

The immunization requires three doses of vaccine at intervals of one week. No bad symptoms have ever followed an injection.

The vaccine is of no value in treatment of established whooping cough—only prevention.

READ THIS FIRST:
Charles Stuckey, of a London law firm, reluctantly agreed to a scheme to defraud the daughter of one of his most respectable clients, Jacqueline Smith, of an inheritance of $1,500,000 from an American uncle. In keeping with the plan, Colonel Alex Lutman, who has a hold over Stuckey, and Jim Asson, an ex-convict, are stopping the same hotel in Coblenz with Mrs.
Smith and her daughter. Jim hopes to marry the girl, having her assign her property to him, before Stuckey informs her of her inheritance. In dire financial straits, Mrs. Smith already is impressed with Jim, posing as a wealthy Englishman, as an admirable
"catch" for her daughter. Lutman, in the role of Jim's trustee, subtly threatens Jacqueline with a check he cashed for her mother, returned marked "insufficient funds".

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 73
JACQUELINE suddenly got up from her chair, strode into the hotel, knocked at the door of her mother's bedroom, and went in.
Mrs. Smith, with her eyes closed and a wisp of handkerchief grasped in her hand, was lying on the bed.

"Mother!"

The older woman opened her eyes and closed them again.

"What is it, Jacqueline?" she said in a weary voice. "I don't want to be disturbed just now."

"I've been talking to Colonel Lutman."

"Yes, dear. So have I. At least, he has been talking to me. I'm feeling dreadfully upset. I had no idea Colonel Lutman had such a hasty temper. He shouted."

"He has told me about the check."

Mrs. Smith opened her eyes.

"Mother, what on earth made you do a thing like that? It's awful. It's fraud—cheating—you must have known there was no money there."

"Yes, dear, of course I did."

"Yet you wrote a check and asked Colonel Lutman to cash it?"

"No, dear; I didn't ask him. He offered. I suppose I let slip that I was a little short of money, and he said he'd be pleased to cash the check for me, and I did it. But I never dreamed the bank wouldn't give him the money for it. I've often overdrawn my account before."

"But for $750, mother—as much as two quarters' allowance from Uncle Alan!"

"Well, the bank would have got it back, Jacqueline, in due course, and I really had to have it. I'm sure I don't know where all the money goes. It's no use getting cross with me, Jacqueline. Colonel Lutman wasn't at all nice about it, and I really can't stand any more. Look on the dressing table, dear, will you? I believe there's a bottle of aspirin."

Jacqueline did not move.

"I suppose you realize, mother,"
she said, "that if Colonel Lutman had gone to the police..."

"Oh, yes, I realize that. Colonel Lutman told me. I was an unscrupulous woman, he said, and he could put me in prison if he chose to. It's the first time anybody has called me an unscrupulous woman, and I'm terribly hurt about it, dear."

and if you start bullying me,
too..."

"Did you give the money back to Colonel Lutman?"

Mrs. Smith gazed at her in surprise.

"Give it back, Jacqueline? Of course I didn't give it back. The Colonel asked for it, but I said I'd spent it already and he couldn't have it."

"I see," said Jacqueline. "And where is it, mother?"

"I'm not going to tell you, Jacqueline. I know what's in your mind. You want to take it and give it to Colonel Lutman."

"Mother, we must—at least as much as you've got left."

"I'm not going to do it, Jacqueline," said her mother firmly. "And I'm not going to let you do it. I can't. It's all I've got, and I don't care what anybody thinks of me—I'm not going to give it up.
If it's fraud and cheating and all that sort of thing—then I'll be a fraud and a cheat."

"Mother! I wonder you're not ashamed!"

"That's it—now you turn against me, Jacqueline. Ashamed! Perhaps I am ashamed. Perhaps—all these years, lying and pretending and using nasty little subterfuges
—perhaps I've always been ashamed. You've never thought of that, have you? You've thought I was hard, unprincipled, that as long as I could have nice food and pretty clothes I didn't care what petty little meannesses I used to get them. But I didn't mind your thinking that as long as I could somehow keep going and give you everything you needed."

"Mother—please!"

Mrs. Smith dabbed her eyes with her wisp of handkerchief.

"You've thought I was just a deceitful, conceited, selfish woman," she went on, "who didn't realize the cheap, contemptible sort of life
I was leading. But I've always realized, and I've always hated it just as much as you have, and now you're turning against me!" Suddenly she buried her face in the pillow, sobbing.

Jacqueline went to her and laid a hand on her shoulder.

"Mother!"

"No—leave me alone, Jacqueline.
You don't understand—you've never understood. I've kept struggling on, trying to do my best for you, and you've only despised me."

"Mother, I haven't despised you.
And I have realized. I've often thought how wonderful you were."

"So you may have done, Jacqueline," sobbed her mother, "but you've never done anything to help me. I've tried so hard to fix everything for you so that you shouldn't have to live the sort of life I've lived, and you've never backed me up. There was that charming young fellow in Paris with more money than he knew what to do with. He was dreadfully in love with you, and everything would have been splendid if you'd married him, but you ruined everything—just because he hadn't a great deal of chin."

"But mother, I really didn't love him!"

"You didn't try to, Jacqueline."

SENATOR GERALD NYE of North Dakota has asked the state department to inform him as to just what nations are, at this time, at war, and just how many wars are going on.

The state department came back at Senator Nye with another question: what kind of war does he mean? Official or unofficial? Civil or uncivil? Domestic or imported?

Well, Mr. Nye, in Spain, for instance, we understand there are at least six wars going on at the same time. This beats a three-ring circus, but is not nearly as amusing.

Spain is engaged in civil strife which makes it a strictly domestic war. But foreigners, and plenty of them, are fighting on two opposing sides, so it is an imported war,

too.

The Loyalists and Rebels in Spain are engaged in an official war against each other, but it is strongly hinted that Italy, Germany, Russia and maybe a couple of other nations are involved, though they aren't supposed to be.
That makes for War No. 4.

The Spanish struggle is really a civil war (No. 5), but both sides have been acting in a very uncivil manner toward each other and there you have War No. 6.

So much for Spain, Mr. Nye.
What country shall we consider or—but we're afraid Mr. Nye isn't listening any more.

48 OUTSTANDING GOLFERS BEGIN DIFFICULT AUGUSTA CONTEST

COOPER, SNEAD, HORTON SMITH ARE FAVORITES

Atlanta Fans Backing Jones to Return to Championship Caliber Again

SARAZEN, OTHERS ENTER

First Duo Tees Off at Noon For Sweepstakes Honor

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1.—(UP)—Forty-eight "master" golfers tee off today in the opening round of the Augusta National golf championship.

This year's tourney, fourth of the annual "Masters" tournaments, has a relatively small field but promises keen competition as the field includes virtually all the top golfers of the country. Bobby Jones will make his annual emergence from retirement.

Betting circles have picked about six linksmen as most likely to succeed, but actually the tourney is as open as the next presidential race.

Some like Harry Cooper who was nosed out of the title a year ago but who has been raking in the shekels in winter season competition. Others heavily played are Sam Snead, the youngster from White Sulphur Springs; defending champion Horton Smith, Henry Picard, the tall boy from Hershey, Pa., and Gene Sarazen, the little Italian who will be a threat as long as he brings his sticks to a golf course.

Jones Long Shot

Georgians, especially the Atlanta crowd, are plunking down a large number of sentimental dollars on the chances of Robert T. Jones, who thinks they are wrong. His betting price is 12 to 1.

"There are a lot of good bets in the field," Bob said, "so they might try some of them instead of me; I'm just playing ordinary golf, and maybe not that good."

The show started at noon when Jimmy Thomson and Sam Snead tee off. The distance ability of these two sluggers should make their twosome an engaging one. This is the biggest betting tourney of eastern America.

Jimmy Served With Court Writ

TIRED of dodging Madison Square Garden's process servers, Jimmy Braddock, heavyweight champ, accepts a court order from Marshal William McDermott in New York to show cause in federal court, April 5, why he should fight Joe Louis in Chicago, June 22, instead of first meeting Max Schmelling in New York, June 3. Jimmy is seen reading the writ.

Pitching Staff Hurts Indianapolis Chances

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 1.—(UP)—A questionable pitching staff appears to destroy the chances of the Indianapolis Indians for the American Association pennant.

The club finished fourth a year ago and, it may not move up unless Manager Wade Killefer can pull in talented moundsmen from some source.

The Indians have only two regular pitchers back. They are Vance Page, who won 15 and lost 13, and Lyle (Bud) Tinning, whose record was 13 victories against 15 setbacks.

NEW YORK BOSS SENDS PLAYERS TO MANY FARMS

EDGEWATER GULF, Miss., April 1.—(UP)—Manager Bill Terry pared the New York Giant roster today, sending Hal Lee, Ed Madjeski and Moose Meketi to the Giants' Jersey city farm club of the International league.

John Hubbel was sent to Greenwood, Miss., Les Powers to Baltimore on option, and Tom Ferrick, Bill Benne, Bill Yarewicz, and Jim Sheehan to Richmond, Wayne Black and Paul Carpenter were sent to Pensacola.

This cuts the squad to 25, two over the limit. The Giants resume their exhibition series with the Cleveland Indians Saturday at New Orleans.

YANKEES READY TO START LONG 8-STATE SWING

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 1.—(UP)—The New York Yankees broke training camp today and packed up for an eight-state swing through southern states.

The world champions will not meet another major league club until they encounter the Dodgers in Brooklyn April 16. The Bronx Bombers travel to Tallahassee, Fla., for their first tilt tomorrow.

CLEVELAND AND CHICAGO AFTER A. B. C. IN 1938

NEW YORK, April 1.—(UP)—The battle over next year's site for the American Bowling congress tourney was expected to get under way today as the executive committee of the A. B. C. met to consider matters for presentation to the delegates.

A city for the 1938 tournament has not been decided although it seemed inevitable that the fight will simmer down to Chicago and Cleveland. The delegates decide this point between themselves and it invariably leads to a bitter battle between two of the cities offered by the executive committee.

Both Chicago and Cleveland have planned for the 1938 congress and adherents of both sides are waging a war in full force. Already many delegates have been buttonholed by the Midwest cities' boosters and many more will be cajoled into promising their votes as they arrive today and tomorrow.

Present indications are that the eastern delegates will stand almost solidly behind Cleveland which swung its votes a year ago for New York in 1937. Majority of the mid-western cities, however, were expected to favor Chicago.

Two new names appeared in the high ten standings today as a result of last night's bowling. Pabst Blue Ribbons of New York rolled a 2,947 to tie for fourth place and Murgies Delos of Upper Darby, Pa., totaled 2,909 to edge into tenth place. Jack Dempsey's regular team placed 11th with a 2,901.

FRISCH PLEASED DESPITE TEAM'S FAILURE TO WIN

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 1.—(UP)—Despite the loss of 11 out of 15 training games, Manager Frankie Frisch was optimistic over St. Louis' prospects today. The Cards play the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon after taking a 5-4 thumping from the New York Yankees yesterday. The Dodgers were edged out, 1 to 0, by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Other members of the Wonder team are Orlyn and Wyman Roberts, Beryl Drummond and Earl McMahon, all four members of the original Waterloo outfit.

SOME GLEANINGS

Washington Senators are trying to get Joe Vosmik, clubbing outfielder, from St. Louis. The softball meeting at George Hammel's office on April 9 will be important; all who intend to back teams should be present. Cleveland Indians are happy today because the New York Yankees have sent Vito Tamulis back to the minors; the hurler was a consistent thorn in the sides of the Clevelanders.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PARRYING A THRUST
SUPERLATIVE defense entails fathoming the declarer's most nefarious machinations. Extremely brilliant thrusts on his part can sometimes be parried only by keen thinking which, to begin with, includes the making of the same plan for his play of the hand that he has made himself, and then figuring out the only stumbling block which he fears. Of course, it is the defender's duty then to toss that obstacle in his path.

spade deuce, hoping it would be over-ruffed by West and that the latter was the holder of three trumps. When West won that trick with the spade five, the declarer had his contract, for one more round of trumps won in the dummy settled the outstanding ones and the clubs provided discards for the diamonds.

Walter F. Wyman of Boston, sitting in the West position, forestalled the declarer who tried this maneuver against him. He refused to over-trump, so that the declarer was obliged to lead two more rounds of trumps and consequently could not cash the set up club suit.

With an opening bid of 1-Club by North, what contract should and then ruffed a club with the North-South reach?

Mrs. S. H. McCarthy, Somerville, N. J., sends in the following suggestion: When drying knives or razor blades, always wipe from the back of the knife, so the towel will not be cut.

Dirt in the eyes may be washed out by squeezing into the eye a small stream of tepid, boiled water from a sponge.

OUTSTANDING GOLFERS BEGIN DIFFICULT AUGUSTA CONTEST

COOPER, SNEAD, HORTON SMITH ARE FAVORITES

Atlanta Fans Backing Jones to Return to Championship Caliber Again

SARAZEN, OTHERS ENTER

First Duo Tees Off at Noon For Sweepstakes Honor

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1.—(UP)—Forty-eight "master" golfers tee off today in the opening round of the Augusta National golf championship.

This year's tourney, fourth of the annual "Masters" tournaments, has a relatively small field but promises keen competition as the field includes virtually all the top golfers of the country. Bobby Jones will make his annual emergence from retirement.

Betting circles have picked about six linksmen as most likely to succeed, but actually the tourney is as open as the next presidential race.

Some like Harry Cooper who was nosed out of the title a year ago but who has been raking in the shekels in winter season competition. Others heavily played are Sam Snead, the youngster from White Sulphur Springs; defending champion Horton Smith, Henry Picard, the tall boy from Hershey, Pa., and Gene Sarazen, the little Italian who will be a threat as long as he brings his sticks to a golf course.

Jones Long Shot

Georgians, especially the Atlanta crowd, are planning down a large number of sentimental dollars on the chances of Robert T. Jones, who thinks they are wrong. His betting price is 12 to 1.

"There are a lot of good bets in the field," Bob said, "so they might try some of them instead of me; I'm just playing ordinary golf, and maybe not that good."

The show started at noon when Jimmy Thomson and Sam Snead tee off. The distance ability of these two sluggers should make their twosome an engaging one. This is the biggest betting tourney of eastern America.

Jimmy Served With Court Writ

TIRED of dodging Madison Square Garden's process servers, Jimmy Braddock, heavyweight champ, accepts a court order from Marshal William McDermott in New York to show cause in federal court, April 5, why he should fight Joe Louis in Chicago, June 23, instead of first meeting Max Schmelling in New York, June 3. Jimmy is seen reading the writ.

Pitching Staff Hurts Indianapolis Chances

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 1.—(UP)—A questionable pitching staff appears to destroy the chances of the Indianapolis Indians for the American Association pennant.

The club finished fourth a year ago and, it may not move up unless Manager Wade Killefer can pull in talented moundmen from some source.

The Indians have only two regular pitchers back. They are Vance Page, who won 15 and lost 13, and Lyle (Bud) Tinning, whose record was 13 victories against 15 setbacks.

NEW YORK BOSS SENDS PLAYERS TO MANY FARMS

EDGEWATER GULF, Miss., April 1.—(UP)—Manager Bill Terry pared the New York Giant roster today, sending Hal Lee, Ed Madjeski and Moose Meketi to the Giants' Jersey city farm club of the International league.

John Hubbel was sent to Greenwood, Miss., Les Powers to Baltimore on option, and Tom Ferrick, Bill Benne, Bill Yarewick, and Jim Sheehan to Richmond, Wayne Black and Paul Carpenter were sent to Pensacola.

This cuts the squad to 25, two over the limit. The Giants resume their exhibition series with the Cleveland Indians Saturday at New Orleans.

YANKEES READY TO START LONG 8-STATE SWING

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 1.—(UP)—The New York Yankees broke training camp today and packed up for an eight-state swing through southern states.

The world champions will not meet another major league club until they encounter the Dodgers in Brooklyn April 16. The Bronx Bombers travel to Tallahassee, Fla., for their first tilt tomorrow.

CLEVELAND AND CHICAGO AFTER A. B. C. IN 1938

NEW YORK, April 1.—(UP)—The battle over next year's site for the American Bowling congress tourney was expected to get under way today as the executive committee of the A. B. C. met to consider matters for presentation to the delegates.

A city for the 1938 tournament has not been decided although it seemed inevitable that the fight will simmer down to Chicago and Cleveland. The delegates decide this point between themselves and it invariably leads to a bitter battle between two of the cities offered by the executive committee.

Both Chicago and Cleveland have planned for the 1938 congress and adherents of both sides are waging a war in full force. Already many delegates have been buttonholed by the Midwest cities' boosters and many more will be cajoled into promising their votes as they arrive today and tomorrow.

Present indications are that the eastern delegates will stand almost solidly behind Cleveland which swung its votes a year ago for New York in 1937. Majority of the mid-western cities, however, were expected to favor Chicago.

Two new names appeared in the high ten standings today as a result of last night's bowling. Pabst Blue Ribbons of New York rolled a 2,947 to tie for fourth place and Murgies Delos of Upper Darby, Pa., totaled 2,909 to edge into tenth place. Jack Dempsey's regular team placed 11th with a 2,901.

FRISCH PLEASED DESPITE TEAM'S FAILURE TO WIN

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 1.—(UP)—Despite the loss of 11 out of 15 training games, Manager Frankie Frisch was optimistic over St. Louis' prospects today. The Cards play the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon after taking a 5-4 thumping from the New York Yanks yesterday. The Dodgers were edged out, 1 to 0, by the Philadelphia Phillies.

two months has risen five percent, the furious buying of raw materials for armaments reacting on everything. Copper, lead and tin are nearly double last year's price. Steel is so scarce the building of the fifth of forth bridge had to be postponed.

Despite the cost, however, Britain is spurred into frantic rearmament by the following factors:

1. The lightning growth of Germany's military power.

2. Recognition of the fact Italy's rising air and naval strength and the conquest of Ethiopia, plus her latest adventure in Spain, have rendered precarious Britain's domination of the Mediterranean sea route to the east, jugular vein of the empire.

3. Belated facing of the fact that Britain's "splendid isolation" has vanished with the advent of great air fleets on the continent, making London, the heart of the empire, the most vulnerable capital in the world.

4. Breakdown of the last hopes of arms limitation, collective security or dependence on the League of Nations.

To counteract vigorously such uncomfortable facts, Britain intends before the end of the year to have 148 warships under construction, and air force of more than double the size of a year ago, and a re-equipped and strengthened army, all to be accomplished by an expenditure three times that of the average for the last five years.

To finance the re-armament effort, England plans defense loans totalling eventually $2,000,000,000 in addition to increased regular budgetary spending.

Because of her almost complete dependence abroad for raw materials and foodstuffs to supply a population of 45,000,000 and the necessity of protecting an empire covering one-fourth of the land area of the globe, Britain's primary pre-occupation is increasing the navy.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, expressed what is in the back of the government's mind when he said reconstruction of the fleet is overwhelmingly important because:

"If sea communications are cut we have supplies of raw materials to last only three months, but that is more than we should need because within six weeks we would be dead of starvation."

there would be complete freedom of religion in the basque provinces—the provinces of Biscaye, Navarre, Alava and Guiposca in the north bordering on the bay of Biscay and France.

Even while the nationalists are starting a new offensive in the Basque country, hoping to retrieve their losses elsewhere, Aguirre asserted that his men were organizing for a big offensive of their own which they meant to maintain until the provinces, three of them overrun by nationalists, were all under loyalist control.

He said he thought his government was justified, in its bid for men, in calling a holy war by all Catholics against the nationalists for their use of Moors.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PARRYING A THRUST
SUPERLATIVE defense entails fathoming the declarer's most nefarious machinations. Extremely brilliant thrusts on his part can sometimes be parried only by keen thinking which, to begin with, includes the making of the same plan for his play of the hand that he has made himself, and then figuring out the only stumbling block which he fears. Of course, it is the defender's duty then to toss that obstacle in his path.

spade deuce, hoping it would be over-ruffed by West and that the latter was the holder of three trumps. When West won that trick with the spade five, the declarer had his contract, for one more round of trumps won in the dummy settled the outstanding ones and the clubs provided discards for the diamonds.

Walter F. Wynman of Boston, sitting in the West position, forestalled the declarer who tried this maneuver against him. He refused to over-trump, so that the declarer was obliged to lead two more rounds of trumps and consequently could not cash the set up club suit.

In Newspaper Feud

CLIMAX to a purported long-standing newspaper feud in Alturas, Cal., came when Claude C. McCracken, editor of a daily Alturas paper, was shot and killed in his home. Police arrested Harry French, above, 30-year-old state employe and a son of the publisher of a rival Alturas newsheet and held him on an open charge.

two months has risen five percent, the furious buying of raw materials for armaments reacting on everything. Copper, lead and tin are nearly double last year's price. Steel is so scarce the building of the fifth of fourth bridge had to be postponed.

Despite the cost, however, Britain is spurred into frantic rearmament by the following factors:

1. The lightning growth of Germany's military power.

2. Recognition of the fact Italy's rising air and naval strength and the conquest of Ethiopia, plus her latest adventure in Spain, have rendered precarious Britain's domination of the Mediterranean sea route to the east, jugular vein of the empire.

3. Belated facing of the fact that Britain's "splendid isolation" has vanished with the advent of great air fleets on the continent, making London, the heart of the empire, the most vulnerable capital in the world.

4. Breakdown of the last hopes of arms limitation, collective security or dependence on the League of Nations.

To counteract vigorously such uncomfortable facts, Britain intends before the end of the year to have 148 warships under construction, and air force of more than double the size of a year ago, and a re-equipped and strengthened army, all to be accomplished by an expenditure three times that of the average for the last five years.

To finance the re-armament effort, England plans defense loans totalling eventually $2,000,000,000 in addition to increased regular budgetary spending.

Because of her almost complete dependence abroad for raw materials and foodstuffs to supply a population of 45,000,000 and the necessity of protecting an empire covering one-fourth of the land area of the globe, Britain's primary pre-occupation is increasing the navy.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, expressed what is in the back of the government's mind when he said reconstruction of the fleet is overwhelmingly important because:

LOYALISTS WIN CITY OF BURGOS IN NEW ADVANCE

Leader of Catholics Asks
For Declaration of Holy War in Spain

there would be complete freedom of religion in the basque provinces—the provinces of Biscaye, Navarre, Alava and Guipcoza in the north bordering on the bay of Biscay and France.

Even while the nationalists are starting a new offensive in the Basque country, hoping to retrieve their losses elsewhere, Aguirre asserted that his men were organizing for a big offensive of their own which they meant to maintain until the provinces, three of them overrun by nationalists, were all under loyalist control.

He said he thought his government was justified, in its bid for men, in calling a holy war by all Catholics against the nationalists for their use of Moors.
